Dowsing Past Lives

Other Lifetimes & Their Effects

You may find it hard to believe you have lived other lifetimes. If so, just try to have an open mind and use your dowsing as best you can to get information.

Other lives can relate to past lives, future lives or parallel lives. There may even be other categories. The type of other life isn't that important. The fact that these other lives can potentially affect your current life are the big challenge.

Dowsing About Other Lives

How Many?

You can, if you wish, dowse how many other lives you have been with a particular person from this life. You will probably get a more meaningful answer if you ask how many other lives you have shared that were 'significant', and you will want to be clear in your mind what you mean by that.

In other words, you may have known your mother as a customer in your hat shop in another life, but she really had little effect on you. What you are more concerned about are how many times you two have been together and had a significant effect on each other for good or bad.

In dowsing numbers, you can use a scale of some sort, or you can just ask how many digits are in the number. Say 0, 1, 2, ...and stop when you get a 'yes'. Then you can dowse what the first digit is, saying numbers 0, 1, 2...and stop at 'yes'. Then do the other digits. Then dowse to check you have the number right.

Obviously, the larger the number, the more significant the effect. But even a small number, if those lives were very powerful, can have a big effect on you in this one.

What Relationship?

You can dowse what relationship you had with the particular person in each of those lives. A chart is helpful doing this. Spiritual Response Therapy, a method we were both certified in long ago, does a lot of this type of dowsing of past lives using charts. But you can make your own chart.

Some of the possible relationships that are common are blood relationships, in-laws, marriage, business relationships, other types of partnership, teacher/student, healer/patient, etc.

You can dowse whether the relationship was happy and fulfilling to you, miserable and painful or a combination.

You can dowse about particulars: betrayal, murder, death, support, savior.

Karmic Attractions

Not Always Happy

A powerful attraction can indicate karmic energies. Karmic energies relate to associations in other lives. Those 'significant' lives you just dowsed about can be the basis for a strong, karmic attraction.

A strong attraction does NOT indicate you are 'soul mates' or meant to be happy together. It usually indicates you will have a powerful experience with that person, but it can be for good or bad.

Purpose of Karmic Attractions

1. Resolution of issues that were unresolved in other lives. Usually this relates to unpleasant events like murder, betrayal or other forms of unpleasantness. You might find yourself attracted to a person who poisoned you in a past life, and the opportunity is NOT about being a victim again. It's about finding a way to resolve that energy. There can be many ways to resolve it. Some are a lot better than others. You will read or hear about people reliving the same experience up to a point, then changing it drastically. For example, maybe this time, you poison him. But that then has its own momentum in terms of karma. Resolution is best found by 'learning' whatever the lesson is. Maybe it's about not being a victim this time. Like walking away from a bad relationship, or not turning a blind eye to betrayal, or setting boundaries.
2. Sometimes a person is meant to be an 'earth angel' or big supporter for you in this life. They may have had that function many lifetimes over. You will often feel quite an attraction to this type of person, yet the attraction doesn't feel a lot different from that in #1.
3. Maybe the person is meant to be a partner to you in this life: business, marriage, friendship, long term, short term.
4. Perhaps the person has no karmic connection to you. You can still be attracted to people for purely chemical or energetic reasons. But the strongest attractions usually turn out to be an expression of energies from other lives, and dowsing can reveal a lot about them.

Use Dowsing

1. Check how many lifetimes this person has been significant to you
2. Find out more about the details of the relationship in each lifetime
3. Find out who did what to whom

4. Be aware that it will probably be a mixture of 'good' and 'bad' lives
5. Use dowsing to determine the key role or roles of that person in this lifetime. You can use terms like life partner, friend, supporter, business partner, lover, spouse. Always include 'other'.
6. Find out what, if anything, there is to resolve in this lifetime with that person: victim energy, powerlessness, betrayal, boundary issues, etc.
7. Use dowsing as needed to guide you in using whatever choices or methods will help you clearly resolve the energies in a positive and health way.
